#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	yes- I do so regularly	5/6/2019 11:34 PM
2	I would yes	5/6/2019 5:24 PM
3	I would be hesitant because I wouldn't want other students cribbing their ideas for original research.	5/6/2019 1:50 PM
4	I'd consider it.	5/6/2019 1:35 PM
5	Yes. Only some--RTS majors with excellent writing skills.	5/4/2019 9:26 PM
6	Yes	5/3/2019 3:34 PM
7	Maybe	5/3/2019 2:43 PM
8	Yes I will consider this for the future for Students!	5/3/2019 2:24 PM
9	I would want them to fully understand what that means, particularly that they could be plagiarized.	5/3/2019 2:21 PM
10	Not certain it is appropriate, as they are primarily freshman or writing in French.	5/3/2019 2:21 PM
11	I'm busy or lazy! Eek. I also don't want that to count as a publication and therefor a barrier to publishing my work or student work in, say, a journal.	5/3/2019 2:09 PM
12	maybe	5/3/2019 12:45 PM
13	I would consider asking my students to submit their work to Digital Commons. The opportunity would be voluntary. The work would have to be reviewed by 2 or 3 people before submission.	5/2/2019 4:06 PM
14	not at this time	5/1/2019 5:33 PM
15	Yes. Again, just something I'd need to plan better for.	4/29/2019 2:04 PM
16	I would consider it. However, I have noticed the number of downloads of my own reviews, and sometimes wonder if there isn't plagiarism going on, and students plagiarizing other students would be a concern.	4/26/2019 1:24 PM
17	I would love to see more students sharing their work.	4/26/2019 11:57 AM
18	I will now.	4/25/2019 8:41 AM
19	Absolutely. I think it could be a powerful tool/incentive to encourage students to share their work with their academic community.	4/25/2019 7:52 AM
20	I could see students submitting culminating projects (like a thesis or policy analysis) to Digital Commons. Not sure if this kind of content would serve students better on Portfolium (assuming the university is still using it).	4/24/2019 7:31 PM
21	Poor quality	4/24/2019 4:42 PM
22	I had not thought about it	4/24/2019 3:33 PM
23	Student's levels doesn't allow to produce ideal material for publishing	4/24/2019 2:53 PM
24	Not sure, I am not very familiar with the strengths and limitations of the digital commons	4/24/2019 2:22 PM

Q37 If you are considering using OERs but have yet to do so, what support(s) would you need to take the next step of integrating OERs into your course(s)? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 45 Skipped: 646

ANSWER CHOICES	RESPONSES
Better understanding of what qualifies as OER	49%	22
Technological support for creating/integrating OER materials	49%	22
Assistance from library liaisons with discovering quality resources	40%	18
Course release time, summer stipend or other administrative support	24%	11
Departmental buy-in	13%	6
I am not considering implementing OER at this time	16%	7
Other (please specify)	11%	5
Total Respondents: 45

#	OTHER (PLEASE SPECIFY)	DATE
1	Digital homework resources. There are many good OER texts, but the homework platform is the reason I continue to use a standard text.	5/1/2019 9:34 AM
2	availability of materials in my field (there isn't a lot for our elementary courses, more is available for the courses where I alone make that decision).	4/26/2019 1:24 PM
3	I requested an Antone award to create an OER textbook	4/25/2019 8:41 AM
4	For me it boils down to content. If I find an OER that meets my specific needs, I will use it. Often this takes the form of free articles, etc., from digital publications such as The Atlantic -- not really OER.	4/24/2019 7:31 PM
